From Construction

Walking into a classroom with a large hole in the wall, maneuvering around a crane, or moving a car to make way for a truck load of I-beams became just a part of the changing face of Portage High School for 1500 1965-66 students who faced an entirely new educational environment. Distractions of cement mixers, drills, hammers, open walls, and workers under foot invaded classroom discussions. The biggest condition to be gotten used to occurred when the football field took on a face of complete destruction due to the school growth. Amid the building and crowded conditions, the year rolled along with studies, dances, and sack lunches eaten in the gym balcony. Slowly the Portage students saw classroom, recreational, and cafeteria conditions improve and near completion. During the last weeks of school, Seniors were allowed to eat their lunches in a new cafeteria. They left behind them the new and changing face of PHS.

Surrounding Area Has

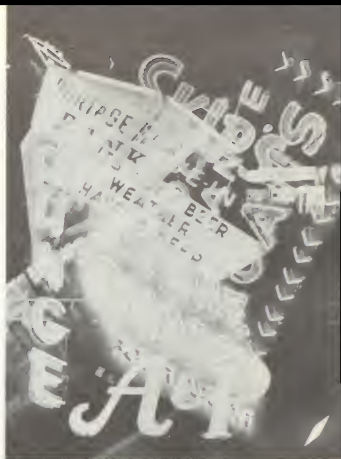

Our community along with the school helped to mold and shape our lives. After school, weekends, and the summer found many of us working in the surrounding and neighboring shops, stores, and industries. We gave our services to our community and in return we learned how to be responsible with our time and money.

Spending our money was also a part of the year. We used our money advantageously giving much thought to its end result, and also a few times we spent on the spur of the moment. But we always tried to get the most for our money.

We also tried to get the most out of our lives. We utilized the natural resources, the parks of dunes and lakes, for a quiet place to go. The neighboring towns satisfied our desires for excitement and a place to let off steam. Realizing that the churches and the school were always open, we shared with them our problems and our happinesses.

Influence on Lives

Changing
Face
in . . .

School Life

Portage school life not only included studies and club activities but time for social events. Homecoming, Christmas, Valentine, and Prom dances brought Portage Indians to school with changed faces and in their best attire.

Hard work did not go by unnoticed. Orchestra, band, and choir awards were presented for the first time. Extra-curricular activities, sports, and scholastic achievements were also acknowledged.

Graduation topped the schedule of school events. Songs, speeches, and diplomas changed the expressions and emotions of many who were involved in the big day that had finally come.

RAISING OUR FLAG early in the morning is a necessary part of the school day for Senior Chip Coffey.

RAIN OR SHINE, PHS patrol boys must fulfill their duties in aiding students as they come to and from school grounds.

Construction Does Not

RUSHING down the empty steps, Senior Greg St. Germain tries to beat the bell, hurrying to make his class.

DUE TO CONSTRUCTION, the cafeteria reverts back to the preliminary stages of the system.

Disturb Student Friendship and Daily Routine

Every morning day in and day out the flag must go up promptly at eight. This duty fell to a first hour Senior hall monitor. The patrol boy duty before and after school also belonged to the Senior boys. "Rain, snow, or shine the traffic must be kept in line," became their motto. The boys didn't seem to mind since they were excused from last hour classes five minutes early.

After everyone was securely in the building, a mad rush toward classes began. Time was found to chat with friends during five minute breaks but the final bell caught some in the halls. Time rolled on and the clock struck twelve. This year when everyone's thought turned to lunch, they found a chuck-wagon lunch line. Due to construction, the sack lunch eaters were forced to eat in the gym balcony. Others sat elbow to elbow to consume their hot lunches on paper plates in the crowded cafeteria.

Despite the crowded conditions, noises, extra duties, and hurry scurry of the day, Portage students still found time to simply enjoy one another's company.

MIDST ARM-LADEN LOADS of books and deep concentration, PHSers find time for one another.

Queen Peggy Reigns on Challenger's Field

RUSHING TO ADD the finishing touches to their car decorations, Dennis Ault, Judy Lambert, and Sandy Clark anticipate the afternnoon Homecoming parade that threads through the town.

In typifying the great amount of student interest and excitement in the festivities of Homecoming, a variety of faculty-judges proclaimed the senior float the most outstanding with their "Deflate 'Em."

October 15 was not really a homecoming in the true sense of the word. Due to construction difficulties the traditional game was played on the field of the Chesterton Trojans.

Thus, on a foreign field, Senior Peggy Howard was proclaimed Homecoming Queen for 1965 by choice of the student body. Through a flood of tears, she was crowned by last year's queen, Shirley Sobczak, while Student Council President Jim Samuel presented her with two dozen red roses.

"Duet in Blue" was the theme of the annual Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the 1965 Student Council. Huge artistic murals covered the south, west, and east walls of the gymnasium, depicting regal carriages and crowns. The royal throne was enveloped in a cloud of glitter and blue, dramatically setting off the Queen and her Court. Music was provided by the "Trolls."

Sprigs of Mistletoe suspended from doorways, lights, and red and silver streamers created a romantic atmosphere for couples who attended the Christmas Dance, "A Touch of Mistletoe" in the Junior High all-purpose room, December 22. To add to the 'Christmasy' mood a fireplace and a window scene decorated the room with a beautiful white flocked tree accented by a black ultra-violet light. Music was provided by the Hitchhikers.

John Wellman served as Master of Ceremonies for the Christmas convocation, sponsored by the Student Council committee which he headed. The Choraliers plus German and Spanish choirs added a musical touch along with the traditional visit by Santa.

"Fantasy of Love," the annual turnabout Valentine dance, was sponsored by the GAA, February 19, in the PHS gymnasium. Dancing to the music of the Larry Kenny Band, the attending couples voted Senior Diane Snyder as the 1966 Valentine Queen. The decorations were in pastel colors, accented with touches of red. Cupids holding the names of the couples present were suspended from two "sweetheart" trees.

TAKING A BREATHER between his many morriage ceremonies, "Morryin Sam" Robert Kellstrom waits for his next victims.

In Dogpatch County, Friday, April 1, was a big night. From 8 to 11 p.m., the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance was held in the Portage all-purpose room. The dance was sponsored by the GAA with the help of sponsor Miss Bernita Atkins. For couples wishing to get hitched, "Marry-in' Sam" Mr. Robert Kellstrom performed a single ring ceremony or shotgun wedding. For those couples that found marriage unsuitable "Divorcin' Dan" Mr. Harvey Noland handled divorces.

Entertainment was provided by the "Haints," and for those couples wanting to relax for a few minutes, tables were set up in the jungle hall where cider and doughnuts were served by Carl Cooper from the Dogpatch local bar.

The decorations included clotheslines strung from one end of the all-purpose room to the other and the lines were draped with old clothes. A rounded desk was set up at the end of the library hall which served as a bar where refreshments were served. A painted scene of an old man toting a jug on his shoulder was placed on the north wall.

Months of advanced preparation and work by class officers, prom committees, and sponsors, played a big role in the success of the 1966 Junior-Senior Prom. The prom decoration committee waded through catalogues of color schemes and special decorations after choosing the theme for the prom. Colored streamers and other decorations, including refreshments, had to coincide and follow up the oriental theme. The colors chosen were blue, green, yellow, and lavender, all of an oriental nature. The refreshment committee chose Freshmen and Sophomore girls to serve refreshments, and to add to the theme of the prom, the girls were dressed in kimonos and fortune cookies were chosen as the main refreshment.

The day before the prom, students gathered in the gym to begin setting up decorations. Their goal: to give the gymnasium an oriental atmosphere.

FOLLOWING THE PROM THEME, Cindy Demmon and Jodie Wehner wear kimonos while serving punch.

Couples entering the hall outside the gymnasium stepped through the pagoda doorway into what seemed to be the 'land of the rising sun'. Japanese lanterns, swirls of streamers, and a pond surrounded by oriental trees set up on the stage created the oriental atmosphere for the "Songs of the Samisen."

Renold Young and his dance band plus dim lights and the romantic atmosphere all added up to an evening of dancing and enjoyment by all.

The night was still young after the dance and couples moved from the gym to the new cafeteria where they were treated to a smorgasbord dinner. And after the dinner, the couples proceeded to the after-prom party at the Crystal Ballroom in the Gary Hotel where they were entertained by the 'Hitch-Hikers' and 'Ellis the Magician.' At five o'clock it was over, but in the minds of those who were present, it will live on as a memory.

EXPRESSING HIS THOUGHTS on maturity, salutatorian Paul Hansen presents his speech to an attentive audience.

Marking the Start of a New Way of Living

Graduates milling in the halls, parents filling the gym, and teachers checking last minute details were all part of the scene graduation night June 2. At 8 o'clock, with a quick adjustment of caps, gowns, and roses, the 325 strong graduating class filed into the already crowded gym using the hesitation step. Six Junior flower girls proceeded the class and remained standing in front until all of the graduates were in their places.

The salutation, "Climate for Maturity," by Paul Hansen and the valedictory speeches, "The Tolerant American" and "Patriotism and Its Role in Shaping the Nation," by Terry Stanely and Marilyn Hatala, respectively, were followed with the usual but very meaningful songs from the choir. After filing up to accept their diplomas from Superintendent Wallace Aylesworth, the Seniors moved their tassels from left to right ending 12 long years of work.

This was the finale of a long week that began at 2:30 p.m., May 29, with baccalaureate services. Then had come a succession of Senior open houses that continued through the week and on after graduation night.

EMPHASIZING AN IMPORTANT POINT, Reverend George Hinshaw speaks to the '66 class on "The Measure of a Man."

Students' Hard Work Pays With Scholarships

Leadership, citizenship, and scholastic ability were qualities considered by the Senior class and the faculty in their choice of the recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution Award.

In memory of their son, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Avery set up the $100 Ricky Avery Scholarship fund which is awarded to a Senior with outstanding qualities such as leadership, scholarship, and school activity.

A scholarship of $100 is awarded to the Senior who excels in athletics and academics. The scholarship was established in the memory of James Benfield.

To earn a merit scholarship, a student must take the merit scholarship test. If the results rank in the top 10,000 in the country, they are considered semi-finalists. The top College Board Examination results of these students are sent to the companies giving the scholarships.

The Ethel Jones Award is given to the outstanding journalism Senior. The student must have an "A" average in journalism and contributed his talents to the publications.

HOLDING UP his hm-m award for all to see is Awards Day MC John Wellman who claims he won it by all sorts of canning.

FTA SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS Sandy Clark and Dianne Snyder talk over their plans about the colleges they are to attend.

Talents Are Recognized With Awards, Grants

The Outstanding Business Student was chosen by the business faculty. This person must be a business major and be outstanding in scholarship and in the business field. Fellow students in the advanced shorthand and office practice classes chose five candidates for Miss Secretary. The final choice was made by the business faculty.

In memory of Mrs. Kyle, a former English and dramatics teacher, the Drama Club and her husband founded the Rowena Kyle Memorial Scholarship. A fund of $100 was given to a worthy Senior.

Selection for the $250 FTA scholarship is based on need, scholastic ability, and an earnest intention of becoming a teacher. The money is gathered together by contributions and projects of the FTA.

Three newly founded music awards were announced at the Awards Day Convocation. The John Philip Sousa Band Award is given to a Senior by a vote of his fellow band members. The National School Orchestra Award and the George L. Myers Award is decided upon by the music faculty.

Practice and Hard Work Produces Recognition

Members of the four publication nominated one person from their staff to be eligible for the Most Valuable Staffer Award. The journalism advisers then made their decisions among the four candidates on personal characteristics and on the help they have given.

Awards found the GAA honoring members with three awards. The local, state, and Outstanding Senior Award were determined on the service given to the club and the number of points accumulated.

IU Institutes Give Students Valuable Experience

Representing Portage High this year at Boys' and Girls' State are five Juniors who will attend summer sessions at Indiana University. The branches of the American Legion from Portage and Ogden Dunes who sponsored the delegates were given the top students on a list that was voted on by the Junior class.

The delegates will attend sessions at I.U. for a week, studying the workings of our government. The delegates will set up a small city and create offices to which the delegates will be elected. The offices vary from dog catcher to mayor. They set up courts where they hold trials of delegates who have committed misdemeanors.

Staffers from the 1966-67 publications were named and five students were given grants to attend the Indiana University Journalism Institute. The students will attend the summer institute to learn how to put out better publications by discovering new and interesting ideas to improve the appearance and quality of copy and layouts.

Departments Single Out Outstanding Students

THE SENIOR INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION AWARD is presented to Bob Ayres by Mr. Packham during the Awards Day Convo.

To a Senior girl with a major in home economics, the highest honor is to be named Homemaker of the Year. The Girls took a test and the girl with the highest score earned the title. Another home economics award, the Outstanding Home Economics Student, was chosen by the home economics students and faculty. She was determined by her skills and character.

Skills in industrial arts are honored by having a special award, the Industrial Education Award. The recipient must have been a Senior who has shown a special inclination in his four years in the industrial department.

Junior students with at least three years of a foreign language took an oral and written test given by Indiana University. If they passed the written and personal evaluation, they are then interviewed in that language. Passing all of these requirements resulted in a scholarship issued by IU.

Another language award was given out by the Spanish Club. A member was awarded a scholarship to study in Mexico. The scholarship was provided by money earned by the club.

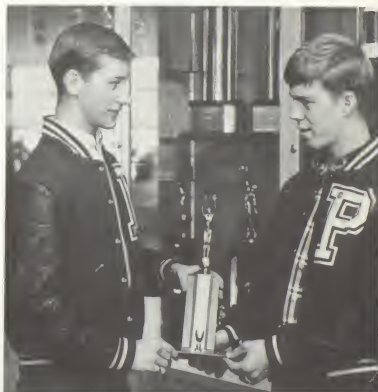

Jock Williams, Jim Samuels, Kothy Gerometta, John Wellman, Dick Holms, Bob Osbolt, Fred Lindner, Bruce Lindner, and Tim

Nelson received trophies at the Sportsman's Bonquet May 17 for individual sport achievements during the year.

A DEEP INTEREST in a foreign language will take language winners Koren BruBaker and Lorry Burkall to Germany and Neil Oaks to Mexico for a summer foreign language program.

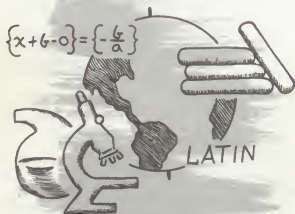

SENIORS TIM NELSON AND DENNIS ANTILLA discuss the hard work the Portage swimming team put toward winning one of the Wallace relays and their trophy.

Our Changing Face in . . .

Academics

With the great stress on education, our academic program changed and developed with the times. New buildings were built which provided for better lab facilities and a larger physical education department. But before the new labs were completed, chemistry classes had to do with no lab because of no gas or water. The new math seeped into our mathematic books and taunted us with sets and theories. SRA physics provided a challenge for the more daring, and the English department continued program changes to create a greater interest.

To keep in step with the increasing student body and building area, many new teachers were added to our changing school.

PROOFREADING IN BEGINNING journalism is a tiresome but necessary skill to master for Diane Pierce and Jim Borlund.

DURING A BRIEF STUDY PERIOD students ponder the aspects of junior literature for the following day.

Oedipus the King, Siddhartha, and Lord of the Flies were among the literary works the senior English classes critically examined. Other areas of learning included short stories and biographies. Composition classes centered their attention on the writing of a term paper complete with note cards and outlines.

Junior English classes embarked on a new field—the writing of a simplified short story. In addition frequent themes ranging in matter from personal opinion to subjective description were required. Brave New World and Macbeth proved intriguing subjects for discussions and arguments in many literature classes.

Discussion and study of such novels Red Badge of Courage and Billy Budd added spice to sophomore literature. Students also advanced their writing abilities by writing twenty-six compositions.

Units on library science were presented to freshmen along with basic composition and literature. Instruction was given on such phases as orientation, reference, and fiction.

STUDENTS OF THE STAGE gain beneficial experience while acting out various parts in dramatics class.

Add Variety to Speech and English Classes

"How to Play the Mousetrap Game" demonstrations and commercials advertising Barney's Bubble Bath and the new Guzz soda pop highlighted the speech and dramatics classes. Another first for PHS was the creation of debating teams giving students a much broader background in public speaking. The newly instituted National Forensic League gave students still more opportunities in contest speaking and debating through interschool debates.

A one-act play put on by the dramatics classes was entered in a contest at Calumet High School. Various plays and other dramatics presentations were also attended.

Beginning Journalism students centered their studies around newswriting and editing, intermingled with news quizzes concerning current events. Seeing the Gary Post Tribune put to bed was one of the high spots of the year. On another field trip they visited the POW WOW printer in Valparaiso. Writing articles for sale to magazines, working on a research paper, and critically examining major U.S. newspapers were on the agenda of advanced classes.

Utilize Library Heavily

Films and maps aided the social studies department in its teachings this year.

Government students prepared notebooks from notes taken in class, questions and vocabulary terms at the end of chapters, and current events reports. Two six-page book reports were also required for successful completion of the course. Field trips to the First National Bank of Portage and U. S. Steel were taken by economics classes. To supplement class lectures, students were exposed to panel discussions on automation, large-scale production, and post-graduation jobs. Term papers on juvenile delinquency and a trip to Beatty Hospital were included in the study of psychology.

In world history, a book report each six week period and an additional semester report were necessary. Occasional panel discussions were staged on current events. World geography classes performed workbook problems and took exams testing map knowledge. Brief critical summaries of the American Reader and book reports distinguished U. S. history classes.

DEMONSTRATIONS OF STROBE-LIGHT principles by Mr. Marvin Guernsey give second year chemistry student Sam French a better understanding of photographic chemistry.

Concentrate on New Math and Scientific Ideas

STUDENTS IN MR. NOLAND'S first year algebra class ponder problems and equations with the use of an overhead projector.

Up-to-date textbooks and educational films aided PHS students in mastering the "new math." At all levels of mathematics the three theories of numbers, sets, and functions provided the foundation of modern math. Advanced math and calculus classes made extensive use of graphs, solids, and the theory of functions. Aided by educational films, beginning algebra, geometry, and general math students learned the basics of higher mathematics and set theory.

Limited facilities restricted science classes to the study of theories and mathematical concepts with little experimentation. Beginning chemistry students studied valences, bonding, and atomic structures; whereas advanced classes attempted qualitative analysis. Overhead projector and demonstrations enabled physics students to grasp basic theories and nuclear physics. Biology classes concentrated on general biological principles as they pertain to daily living. Individual study and research was the demand of botany and zoology students. The general science course's aim was to provide an over-all picture of life on earth.

THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM the cold points out a mysterious area on a map of Paris to French student Lorry Stanton.

Poems, Tapes, and Songs Provide for Greater

TAPE RECORDING is an essential part of teaching a foreign language and German teacher Miss Susan Nelson uses it to its fullest extent in helping Sophomore Janine Krohn.

Variations in classroom procedure created an even greater interest in French this past year. Tape recordings of dialogues, drills, and exams enabled students to practice listening and pronunciation traits. Memorization of dialogues through prolonged repetition and study was another area of endeavor. Listening to French classical and pop music was a favorite with all students. Third and fourth year classes delved deeper into the mechanics of proper usage and the fourth year students made a complete study of an epic poem entitled "The Song of Roland."

The history and culture of modern versus ancient Germany was a major part of study in "Deutsch" classes. Pursuing this field, pupils prepared reports on German speaking countries and discussed them in class. The latter two years of German classes spent time studying music and art history in addition to proper forms and pronunciation.

LEARNING BY DOING helps Spanish students Becky Everett, Mary Walstra, and Chuck Andrus learn the parts of the body.

Interest for Learning in Foreign Languages

To accommodate the large number of students partaking in the foreign language program, five new teachers were added to the staff. They helped to teach a total of four different languages. Translation was a prominent characteristic of classroom work in Latin. Included in this drill was the translation of Virgil's epic poem, the Aeneid. Third year students read and studied the Illiad, a famous poem by Homer; whereas fourth year classes dealt with Cicero's Orations against Catiline.

Pronunciation was the key skill developed in Spanish. This was accomplished by means of tapes and persistent repetition. El Cid was a favorite epic work studied by third and fourth year pupils.

POINTING OUT HOW AND WHY he arrived at his translation, Latin student Chris Willis takes his turn at the board.

Interest Areas Widen in Growing Art Classes

Creativity in many media was the demand for the six classes of art. Beginners studied heraldry and created personal coats-of-arms in water-colors. Intermediate and advanced students produced cover designs in a literary magazine cover contest. Then they proceeded to pen-and-ink, tempera, plastic paints, caseins, and oil studies.

Students also designed and molded symbols and animal wall plaques while studying ceramics. Sculpturing, weaving, and punching were added areas of study. Various fields of printing pursued included lithography, etching, silkscreening, and relief printing.

Ending the year was the Gordon's fashion art contest in which students competed for a $25 bond and a tour of the Gary Post Tribune. At the annual school art exhibit results of the year were displayed to the public.

IN THE PROCESS of making ceramic trays, advanced art students work diligently with their clay sticks.

EXAMINING VARIOUS "works of art", Duane DeGoetono, Sherrie Zeller, Mary Lobounty, and Edith Munro engage in constructive criticism.

APPLYING KNITTING AND SEWING SKILLS developed in home economics classes are Freshmen Jill Lindstrom and Carol De Gaetona.

"THESE COOKIES ARE GOOD even if we did bake them ourselves," is a common comment heard in home economic cooking classes.

Senior Boys Turn Chefs; Girls Design Clothes

DONNED WITH APRONS, Seniors Dale Lindstrom and Arnold Ralston find themselves elbow deep in hot water as they clean up their unit in boys' home economics class.

Some of those delectable aromas issuing from the home economics room were products of the boys' home economics class. Such items as fudge, peanut brittle, and chocolate cream pie were prepared by the chefs. They also learned about family living and money management and visited a bakery and Ruge's Meat Plant.

Offered to the girls of 'PHS were clothing, foods, housing, and home nursing. All classes undertook home projects in which the students made decorations and other useful things for the home. Also along this line was the showcase display. Each teacher was responsible for assigning a small group to decorate it for a short period of time.

Another major project of the home economics department was the annual Christmas drive. The girls made clothing gifts for family and friends and dressed dolls for the needy. Useable old clothes were also collected at the Portage Clothing Depot. These items were then made over and distributed to wanting families in the area. All students again participated in the May style show either as models or as committeemen for refreshments and decorations.

A sharp whistle and a clear spoken "attention" awakened marching band members every morning during football season, even once at 7 A.M. Precision routines entitled "Goldfinger" and "Mary Poppins" were among the shows led by head drum major Tim Skinner combined with the varsity band to march in the Valparaiso University Homecoming parade.

Marchers transformed into concert performers in November as they prepared for the concert season. Part of the preparation included a test of skill—challenges. Both concert and varsity bands presented the first all band concert as well as two others with the choir. The bands also entered the state contest under the direction of Mr. Martin Sensenbaugh. Individual students had a chance to enter the solo and ensemble contest in February. In order to raise money for band equipment and music, the music students sold tickets to the annual Adam and Eve beef supper as still another activity.

Tryouts in concert band produced a pep band and a dance band. Orchestra classes spent much time developing technique and preparing for the May 6 concert.

Acquire New Director, Perform at Concerts

STRUGGLING INTO THEIR ROBES before a band-choir concert are choir members Bob Bortoff and Mike Burklow.

All-school tryouts provided twelve singers and a piano accompanist for the Choraliers, formerly the Portage Singers. Under the direction of Mr. Roger Lindquist the group performed at concerts and various social functions in the community. Some of the songs used were "This is a Great Country"; "Get Along Home Cindy, Cindy"; and "It's a Lovely Day Tomorrow". They also provided music for a skit at the Christmas convocation by singing the "Twelve Days of Christmas".

A ninety-six member choir presented the first choir-orchestra concert as well as performing at two other concerts with the bands. In the late winter, the PHS choir was invited to Highland to participate in a music festival both separately and in mass choir with four other schools. Also included on their agenda was the LaPorte state contest.

The vocal contest in February gave all students a chance to display their talents by performing a solo or ensemble arrangement. Another activity undertaken by the chorus classes and bands was the sale of concert tickets. Students who sold five tickets were given a free ticket to River View; whereas the sale of twenty merited a $5 bill.

Aid and Game Skills in Health Education

RETURNING FROM HER first day of behind-the-wheel driving, Glorio Finney receives appreciated approval from drivers' training instructor Mr. Ralph Morris.

Bays' and girls' physical education classes were marked by a seven to ten minute period of calisthenics each day. The entire year was divided into four week periods known as units. During this time students were exposed to lectures, films, quizzes, and an final test. The majority of the time, however, was spent on skill development in the various units—volleyball, basketball, baseball, badminton, ping pang, and dancing. To exhibit the amount of improvement in these skills, physical fitness tests were given each semester.

Health and safety classes were run in a college-like manner. Three days of each week were spent on lecturing which informed students of body processes, safety precautions, and first aid. In connection with the material covered, films ranging in subject from marriage to carbon monoxide were viewed and discussed. Speakers also came to the school and spoke to students on first aid and water safety. A safety campaign was carried out at home and school by the health and safety classes in the spring.

Students Acquire Basics in Business Courses

In the commercial division, beginning typing classes dealt with good posture as well as fundamental typewriting skills. The second year typing students were given frequent timed drills in office practice to increase speed and accuracy. Dots and dashes again proved a baffling subject for first year shorthand students as they learned to take and transcribe dictation but a gradual increase in the dictation rate improved these skills. Advanced classes also experienced dictation at a given rate and transcribed mailable letters. Pins were given at the end of the year for superior work.

To supplement the workbook problems, bookkeeping classes worked on practice sets. These gave students a chance to put all techniques into practice at once as they used the books of a business. Business math classes were concerned with various types of arithmetic problems ranging from decimals to addition. Banking fundamentals, business partnerships, and check writing were learned by general business students. Retailing class provided PHS'ers with the opportunity to discuss their jobs given them by the distributive education program.

As indicated by the title of the course, office machines class offered a student experience with various machines. Each student was assigned a different machine for a period of at least five days and was then tested on its operation. The importance of penmanship, sales invoices, and filings were stressed in clerical office practice.

Salesmanship sought to acquaint students with the different types of store set-ups—retail and wholesale. Pointers on selling and appearance were also features of the course. Studying the different types of advertisements and learning their value was the main object of advertising. In addition, the students were required to keep a notebook for advertisement clippings. Sample legal cases were discussed in business law classes and a verdict was determined. In this manner varying opinions were viewed from all angles.

Provide Trade Education and Opportunities

CONCENTRATION AND STRENGTH are characteristics found to be needed by Charlie Hullett and Mike Gobin in machine shop tasks.

Four shops, mechanical drawing, and a building trades class provided a comprehensive program in industrial arts this year. Besides offering a general shop course to acquaint the student with all phases of the subject, four years of mechanical drawing were made possible. The one hour courses also included print shop, electrical shop, and woodworking shop. On still a higher plane of study were the more vigorous vocational training courses designed to train boys for future jobs.

In auto mechanics, machine shop, and building trades actual practice training was preceded by studies of theories and related mathematics involving trigonometry. Practice training for the building trades class involved work on another house. Construction was begun near the first model and carried out in much the same design except for the lack of a basement.

The students in all three vocational courses were observed by representatives of various companies. In such a manner some of the better qualified boys became prospective applicants for post graduate work.

Organizations

With a busy schedule of academic subjects, Portage students still had time for extra-curricular activities. It seemed like every day some club was called together during homeroom to plan a money-making project or a service project. Our school tries to have a club for everyone's interest. And in addition to all our hobby, athletic, and academic clubs, a new club is created when there is enough interest. Such is true with the new VIAC. We have clubs for enjoyment and for service to school and community. Every year they try something new to keep our school interesting, changing, and challenging.

PREPARING FOR THE NATIONAL HONOR Society book drive by wrapping the collecting boxes with colorful paper are members Cathy Lustgarten, Bill Cheek, and Paul Hansen.

Besides its traditional duties of sponsoring the Senior Awards day convocation, the National Honor Society made up a new "A" and "B" honor roll using the four-point system. They collected 400 books and magazines for the library of the Porter Memorial Hospital. In the spring, they held the annual banquet for old members and the induction of new members.

Membership in this club is decided entirely by a vote of the faculty. To be eligible for consideration, a person must be an upperclassman, have a "B" average, and be in the upper tenth of his class.

At-large elections of Student Council officers and members was a major decision voted on by the Council. This new method will first affect the 1966-67 Council.

In addition to this major change, they were responsible for installing the victory flagpole and sponsored three interesting convocations featuring Birch Bayh, a Christmas program, and the National Science Foundation. Members worked at the cloakroom, put up the Christmas tree, and inspected lockers. Revising the out-dated school handbook, "Indian Trails," completed the year.

Guidance Council, SCS Build Strong Character

The Student Citizenship Society, meeting every month, penetrated current issues in depth. The basic philosophy is that there are two sides to every issue. At the beginning of the year there was a panel discussion on student demonstrations. The Viet Nam crisis, the civil rights issue, and the Supreme Court rulings of the Federal voting laws made for timely debates and discussions.

Although hampered somewhat during the second semester by sharing the twenty-five minutes with Student Council reports, the Guidance Council did its job. Its 109 members went in pairs to forty-six homerooms and stayed for two sessions in each homeroom. Topics ranged from "Atomic Survival" to "Why Stay in School?". Most topics dealt with current social problems, teenage problems, or vocational and educational problems. The Freshman program included a well-rounded orientation program.

On October 27, the Guidance Council hosted the parents in homeroom for parents' night, where the parents switched places with their children and attended their classes.

Pow Wow Staffers Add New Features to Paper

Although the Pow Wow changed from a letterpress to offset newspaper, its purpose remained to serve as a source of school information and a way for students to catch up on the going-on of the rest of the school. Written and edited by members of an advanced journalism class and a beginning class, the Pow Wow was published bi-weekly under the direction of editor-in-chief Edith Munro. She and four page editors combined their talents to organize and assign stories for each of the 18 issues printed this year. Working with the editorial staff, the business staff sold advertisements to area merchants and athletic programs at basketball to round out the profits of the subscription campaign and finance the commercially printed paper.

The Pow Wow added new features this year with a sports column, "A Close Look at Sports," more complete news coverage and several editorial campaigns.

The sixteen member Quill and Scroll Society has named itself the Rowena Kyle Chapter of the Quill and Scroll. The Quill and Scroll was founded as an honorary society for exceptional students in journalism. To be eligible for membership, the student must be at least a junior and in the upper third of his class, having played an active part in the PHS publications, the Legend, the Pow Wow or the News Bureau. The Quill and Scroll sponsors the annual publications banquet, presenting awards to outstanding journalism students.

The three-year-old News Bureau has come to play an important part in PHS publications. Sponsored by Mrs. Dold, the News Bureau writes all the publicity and press releases for the school in the local newspapers. The members are chosen by Mrs. Dold on writing ability and journalistic promise.

Legend Staffers Prepare 25th Anniversary Book

BUMPING INTO THINGS and working in odd places became everyday experiences for Judy Bain and Carolyn Saunders.

LONG HOURS of hard work and much co-operation made for a close working team of co-editors Karen Cruikshank and Mory Miller, and photography editor Rabby Hampton.

Amid Tight Conditions, Ever-Present Deadlines

WITH THE HELP of darkroom assistants Tom Arden, Frank Williams, and Rob Nobles, the Legend finally met the deadlines.

This Year's 1966 Legend staff, while working under extremely adverse conditions (a cramped cubbyhole shared equally with the Pow Wow; banging typewriters which frequently failed to operate; lack of drawer and filing space) managed to meet the all-to-frequent deadlines. The dedicated editors and many of the staff members gave up numerous hours of free time both after school and on Saturdays.

Beginning in 1929, the first yearbook in this area was published at Crisman High School entitled the Crismanian. The next year it was known as the Blazer. In 1931, the Legend was started. During the depression and early years of World War II, there was no yearbook. In 1945, the book returned as the Legend.

And now, in commemoration of its 25th anniversary, the 1966 yearbook instituted many new and exciting changes. This year it introduces an embossed cover with one applied color and artistic sketches employed throughout the book. Sales have been increased to 1050 books. A dance and bake sale, sponsored by the publications brought in additional funds.

A-V Boys Complement Class Work With Films

If one happened to see boys hurrying along the halls carrying bulky equipment, one could be sure they were A-V members. With 600 movies and 2,400 showings a year, our Audio-Visual Club is the busiest club at Portage. Mr. Merel Whiteman, sponsor, estimated that they burned out at least 50 projector bulbs over the school year.

Besides showing the always-popular flicks, the Audio-Visual Club members set up the public address system for every pep session and convocation presented. The Audio-Visual Club also controlled and maintained the school's tape recorders, slide projectors, overhead projectors, opaque projectors, and record players.

VICA Builds Church

Portage's newest club is the Portage Chapter of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. It started off in the beginning of the year at Portage as the Industrial Arts Club, but later on last year, it received its charter in the national organization. Beating every other club at the school, they placed third in the Homecoming parade float contest, behind only the Senior and Sophomore entries. After Homecoming, the club surprised its sponsor, Mr. Robert Baughman, and his wife with a steak dinner at Wellman's.

Although they went fishing one weekend, the club is basically a service organization. Besides making butane bottle holders for the chemistry department, and various other projects for the schools in the Portage Township School system, they worked several Saturdays helping build the Church of God in Portage.

Students Buy 600 Books; Girls Help in Library

Six hundred paper back books were sold by the Teen Book Club at low reasonable prices. Representatives were elected by the members of their homerooms to take the students' orders. For every five books ordered by a student each month, he was entitled a free book.

Learning while serving was the by-word for the Library Club. As the girls in the club filed cards and books and helped students to locate books, they became more efficient themselves. From the moment a girl entered the ranks of the librarian, she found herself in a role of counselor, adviser, and locator of volumes for students.

YOUR MOVE! After thoughtful contemplation, a chess club member begins her challenging play.

Consisting of only ten members, the Phils and Nums met every Friday. For the second year, Portage students who were interested in collecting and discussing stamps and coins were encouraged to join. They alternated every meeting with a visit to a stamp and coin shop in Valparaiso. In the spring, the club journeyed to Chicago for the annual Stamp and Coin Show.

Meeting every Monday immediately after school, 17 members of the Chess Club proved their ability to reason in the quiet of the library. With a majority of boys, the members were guided during intra-club games by Sponsor Roger Stewart. Through many hours of patient practice, the club members were able to work up to more challenging moves.

Los Conquistadores See Jose Greco; Send

In its second year of Portage, Los Conquistadores became stronger and more active. The club did much throughout the year beginning with a Homecoming float with the theme, "Stomp 'Em". Christmas found the troupe busily organizing a choir for the Christmas convocation. The club had a strictly Spanish party by dancing to Spanish music and serving Latin American food. Late in February, twenty members went to see Jose Greco in Chicago. Two bake sales and a dance held early in the spring were the club's main sources of income. Enough money was earned during the year to send three people to Mexico this summer.

A point system was adopted this year so that those people who worked diligently during the year could be recognized. A certain number of points were awarded to each member for their participation in the club's activities. This new system was used as a factor in determining who would be sent to Mexico this summer and in years to come.

GERMAN GEOGRAPHY can be interesting as Frau Blei discusses her subject with Miss Nelson and students at a club meeting.

Latin Club has undergone many changes this year. Mr. Barry Liss, its new sponsor, worked with the club to see that Latin does not become a "dead" language. The club enjoyed several social activities. A float depicting a Roman charioteer graced the Homecoming parade. They also sponsored a bake sale and their annual banquet.

In the fall, the German Club staged its annual initiation of new members headed by President Karen BruBaker. Candidates had to eat a limburger cheese and onion sandwich and dramatize a joke or a short story. John Wellman showed his slides of his summer stay in Germany. They have listened to tapes recorded in Germany by students there, and they have made one in German themselves which they sent to Germany. The proceeds from a bake sale went to pay their way for a trip into Germantown on May 21. They also had a "Fasching" party, a German Mardi Gras.

OFFICERS AND BOARD MEMBERS of the newly organized PBC take time in planning the agenda for upcoming meetings.

Working closely with the business department, the Portage High School Business Club again maintained their record as an active club on the Portage scene. They have listened to a total of five different speakers over the year, whose topics have ranged from the Social Security System to what employers look for in job applicants. The PBC is programmed for anyone who is thinking of a job in a business corporation.

Service projects, financed by proceeds from an after-game dance in February, included both the "Miss Secretary" and the "Outstanding Business Student" awards.

Those attending the Future Teachers of America meetings heard programs featuring special education, a panel of cadet teachers, talks by guest teachers, and a variety of movies. Included in the FTA agenda were various money-making ventures. They sponsored an after-game sock hop, PHS pin sales, and a dance in the latter part of April featuring the Hitchhikers. The money brought in from these projects was used for scholarship funds given to worthy Seniors at the end of the year.

The Future Nurses Club, open to anyone interested in a medical profession or to anyone interested in a high school civic organization, has been very active in the community. For Thanksgiving and Easter, they collected baskets of food for distribution to needy families in Portage. At Christmastime, they collected five boxes of toys, games, and puzzles, which were donated to the Portage Clothing Depot for its welfare work. Also at Christmas, they helped stuff envelopes for the Christmas Seal Drive.

This organization has two high purposes. Foremost, of course, the Future Nurses Club seeks to inform and interest its membership in some phase of the medical profession. Secondly, it reaches into the community as a civic-minded organization.

Annually, the Future Nurses hold a tea around the end of the school year. Any interested eighth grader is invited to attend. There is a speaker to talk about some part of medicine. This both boosts club membership and sparks interest in the organization.

Brush and Palette's big shindig was the March Van Gogh-Go dance. Members created large acrylic "masterpieces" of abstract art to decorate the multipurpose room. Doorprize winners were allowed to keep one of the creations. Club members working the dance wore painter's smocks and berets and the Auroras played.

Art Club was the only organization that regularly met at night. At evening meetings they worked on Origami, the Japanese art of paper-folding; invited Dave Sanders from Saturday's Child to lecture; and silk-screened and folded cardboard German bells for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Community Christmas tree on the corner of Willowcreek and Central Avenue. The JayCees returned the gift by treating the surprised group to pizzas.

Later in the year, the club planned a field trip to the Chicago Art Institute, shopped for a fountain to beautify the PHS jungle, and elected new officers for the 1966-67 year.

Drama Club Play Draws

In early October, the Drama Club chartered a bus for a trip to see the dress rehearsal for "Mary, Mary," a Valparaiso community guild presentation. The Pulitzer Prize winning play "The Diary of Anne Frank," was produced by the group in late November and drew a record audience of 800 over a two-night run. A bake sale, the proceedings from which went for stage equipment and to the Rowena Kyle Scholarship fund, was highly supported and proved to be a great success. The club ended its activities of the year with their spring comedy "Stage Door."

Seven new members were inducted into the Thespians this spring at the Awards Day convocation. They were chosen on the basis of points gained by working on and behind the stage. A total of ten points were necessary for membership by students of sophomore age or over.

GAA Members Attend Tourneys, Hold Banquet

STRIKE! All the anticipation of the all-American game is shown on the faces of these GAA girls as they do their best to win the game.

Sizzling hot dogs, threatening rain clouds, and autumn leaves provided the setting for a GAA picnic for 145 new and old members. At this first event of the year, officers, rules, and functions were introduced; supper and sports activities were furnished.

The Girls' Athletic Association began the year of sports activities with softball amid building construction. Due to weather conditions, the girls were driven inside for basketball, followed by evenings of volleyball. Though cold weather prevailed, swim suits were dug out for six weeks of swimming at the Valparaiso YMCA. Later with suits stored away, GAA minds turned to bowling and tournaments.

Tournament winners and high-point bowlers received trophies at the spring banquet held on May 26. Along with trophies, ribbons for winning teams in each sport were presented. The new officers were then inducted. Entertainment consisted of reminiscing memories of out-going seniors and a few numbers by the Portage Choraliers.

"RED, WHITE, RED, WHITE! YEA INDIANS! FIGHT!" echoed loudly through the gym at all our basketball games, no matter where we played them. The Portage High School Pep Club was responsible for this tremendous spirit. Due largely to these efforts, Portage easily claimed one of the best cheering sections in the county, and definitely the best cheering section at the Sectional basketball games. Even a broken-down bus could not dampen their spirit; the entire busload walked the last mile to Chesterton to cheer our team on.

The Pep Club worked long and hard preparing for the sectionals. They practiced every night for a week beforehand. Before then, they had worked hard raising money to buy the pom-poms they used, the pictures of the players, and the signs saluting the other schools. To pay for all of these, they sold programs at every home football game, and the mums for the Homecoming dance. In keeping with past years, they again sponsored the traditional Sadie Hawkins dance.

A JAMMED PEP BLOCK cheers wildly in rallying support for our team's victory drive during a class game.

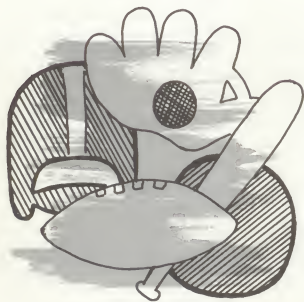

PEP CLUB OFFICERS and varsity cheerleaders plan a campaign to heighten school spirit through booster pins.

Our Changing Face in . . .

Sports

Along with studies, we placed importance on the sports that rounded out the school year. Athletics at Portage High School took on a different face during the 1965-66 school year. We had new coaches assigned to cross-country, reserve and frosh basketball, wrestling, and reserve and varsity baseball. With the completion of the new building, Portage cross-country, football, track, and baseball were not able to play any of their games before the home-town fans. But this did not dull the spirit; it just made it stronger. Even though we didn't win all the time, we never went down without a fight.

Varsity Finishes 0-9-0; Statistics Belie Record

Closing the season with a less than admirable record, the PHS gridders finished with an 0-9-0 Calumet Conference standing. Although plagued by the psychological disadvantage of no games on the home field, the Indians usually topped the statistic struggle with more pass completions, first downs, and yards gained.

Injuries also took its toll this year. Sideline for a part of the year were George Theodorakos, Jim Samuel, Bruce Nagy, and Rick Pazera. The usual amount of pulled muscles and bruised ribs invaded the lockerroom, though more serious injuries were received throughout the year.

Outstanding in the season was senior left halfback Jack Williams, who entered the season late as a result of injuries received before the season began. Jack along with senior Tom Fisher, who was heralded Mr. Football, Denny Crowe, left guard, and Vince Wilson, center, were honored with honorable mentions by the Calumet Conference.

The coaching staff was the same as in the past years. Head Coach Robert Smith and Jim Douglas, assistant, along with the gridders' trainer Mr. Robert Kerns, steered the team this year.

Coaches Jim Gland and Jon Jepsen guided the JV squad through a 1-5 season. This record was bettered only by the freshman squad.

The high point of the season was the defeat of the ever-present rival, East Gary, 25-0. The JV team finished their campaign a few weeks before the varsity ended.

Gaining recognition in the latter part of the season were some of the more deserving JV players. Chris Stueker, Bruce Greinke, John Williams, Ray Hull, Jim Hostettler, and Lonnie Trumble were moved up to the varsity level.

FRESHMAN COACH AROL AMLING discusses the strategy to be used in the game that night at the Portage field.

Coach Arol Amling's freshman football squad finished the season with a 3-3 record, boasting the best record of any of the Portage football squads. The team showed plenty of future varsity material and had one member, George Beasley, left guard, moved up to varsity level, early in the season. The freshmen had plenty of spirit and continued to put out 100 per cent during the season.

The freshman basketball teams had good seasons under the coaching of Mr. Jerry Kaiser. The B team compiled a record of 8 wins and 5 defeats, while the A team had 5 wins against 11 defeats. Both teams showed a lot of promise for future varsity teams at Portage.

The outstanding players on the team were Jerry Carpenter and Bob Nelson who were both moved up to the Junior Varsity level to gain valuable experience playing against older boys.

Tribesmen Finish Second Only to Calumet

This year's varsity basketball coach, Harold Cox, produced one of the finest Portage teams in recent years. The Indians finished second to Calumet in the Calumet Conference when they lost to Calumet in a one point chiller.

Portage led the Conference in scoring for the second year in a row with an average of 78.4 points per game. Indian Bruce Lindner won top standing in the Conference in individual scoring with a 27 point average.

Local sportswriters gave Portage a seventh place ranking in the Gary area at the close of the regular season play. The Indians placed three players on the honored All-Conference squad: Jim Samuel, Gary Vaught, and Bruce Lindner.

The Indians grabbed their first Sectional scalp from Washington Township with no trouble at all. Then they went on to pounce the Wheeler Bearcats, 84-69.

There was plenty of spirit and drive in the Indians as they met Valpo in the final game. The Portagites jumped out to a fast lead and kept the score close throughout the game, but the stronger and taller Vikings gradually caught up and pulled away at the end of the game to win 81-72.

Team Work and Spirit Overshadow JV Record

This year's Junior Varsity team showed an improvement over the past year's, closing with a 9-11 record. Even though the record doesn't seem impressive, there were many close, hard-fought defeats. The spirit was good and the team worked together. As the season wore on, the team showed considerable improvement in play and hustle. This was due to the efforts of Mr. Casbon, J-V coach, and Mr. Cox, varsity coach.

Outstanding Junior Varsity members were leading scorer, Bob Bortorff, followed closely by two top-rate players, Mike Grimm and Dave Reynolds.

JUMPING HIGH OVER the opponent's head, Sophomore Mike Grimm scores a tip-in at a Merrillville game.

PHS matmen started the season at a disadvantage with only seven returning lettermen. But Coach Bruce Sheriff quickly whipped them into shape. Finishing the season with a 5-9 record, Coach Sheriff said, "They were young but did good as a whole."

Individuals fared well in their contributions to the team. Fred Lindner, perhaps the most outstanding wrestler that Portage produced this year, went as far as regional competition. Burt Cook placed third in the conference meet while Chris Stueker placed fourth. Junior John Humphries and Freshmen Burt Cook, Larry Borland and Pat Markos earned letters for their efforts.

Both intramural leagues had successful seasons this year. The winning teams in each league had perfect records.

The Junior-Senior tourney title was captured by the "Aces" while the "Rods" were the victors of the Freshman-Sophomore contest. The Freshman-Sophomore scoring title was won by Ray Hull with 244 points. Senior Rick Pazera was high in the other league with 188 points.

Portage Tankmen Break Six School Records

CLIMBING OUT OF THE POOL after setting a new record for the 100-meter backstroke is team captain Tim Nelson.

The PHS tankers have ended their season under Coach Jon Jepson with a 9 and 10 record. The swimmers started their season with a second place trophy in the Lew Wallace relays and later went on to capture 3rd in the Calumet Conference swim meet.

Senior Tim Nelson and Junior Bob Donley were Portage's contribution to the state swim meet. Tim placed twelfth in the backstroke and Bob was ninth in the diving.

Six new school records were set this year. Captain Tim Nelson set new records in the 100 yard and 100 meter backstroke with times of 1:05 and 1:13.1. Bob Donley set a record in accumulative diving with a total of 257.75 points. Jack Call set a record in the individual medley with a time of 2:16.3. The 400 yard and 400 meter relay teams of John Wellman, Bill Stanchina, Greg Spetz, and Bob Donley set new records of 4:12.5 and 4:35.2.

Track Team Hampered by Torn-up Home Field

SOPHOMORE CHUCK STOUT glides over the cross-bar during the sectionals where he placed fifth.

Although the Portage thinclads won only one track meet, they showed promise for the next year with almost the entire track squad returning. The Freshmen and Sophomores, who won the River Forest Invitational, received most of their varsity experience by participating in the varsity meets. This year's outstanding members were Dick Holms who ran the hurdles and sprints and Jim Samuel who ran anything from the half-mile up to the two-mile runs.

Linksmen Show Promise for Future Years

The Portage Linksmen had a successful season this year in Conference play with a record of 6 victories against 4 defeats. Overall their record was 6 wins and 10 losses.

In the Sectionals at Elkhart, Senior John Wellman placed fourth out of the 140 boys competing, and the team as a whole placed 11 in a field of 35 teams from all over Northern Indiana.

Since there were only three returning lettermen this year, there was plenty of competition for positions among the players. Since the team is only losing one letterman by graduation, they should prove to be a very strong team in the future.

Those boys earning their letters this year were John Wellman, Bob Walker, Greg Demmon, Roger Sines, and Rick Allard.

Baseballers Swung Powerful Bats This Season

The varsity baseball team finished their first season under the direction of Coach Larry Casbon with an overall record of 8-6. Most Valuable Player Jack Williams led the team with a .438 batting average in conference play. Most of the pitching chores were handled by Senior Rick Pazera, who had a record of 4-3 and led the team with 80 strikeouts.

The junior varsity showed great promise for the future by breezing through the season with a record of 6-0. The highlight of the season was the LaPorte game in which Ken Thomas pitched Portage to a 4-3 victory in 20 innings.

Organize Skits and Pep Sessions for Spirit

ANXIETY GRIPS Peggy Howard and Micky Orosz for a tense moment during a varsity football game.

"We're from Portage, couldn't be prouder." Nothing boosted the morale of the cheerleaders as much as the enthusiasm of the crowd. The cheerleaders spent many hot summer hours practicing and polishing their routines; the sweat and tears paying off when the block responded and cheered the team on. Three boys appeared to briefly organize a Junior boys' pep block with cheers, chants, and flash cards of their own.

Due to the hard work of the cheerleaders (and a winning team) our pep block nearly doubled in size. Portage made quite a showing at the sectionals with pom poms, flash cards, and bubbling enthusiasm.

Five varsity, five reserve, and eight freshman cheerleaders were a part of this year's squad. Anyone that was interested in trying out attended a clinic last spring. Then at the beginning of the school year, the Pep Club narrowed the field down to ten varsity and ten junior varsity semi-finalists. By a vote of the entire student body, the 1966 cheerleaders were chosen. Without the guidance of a sponsor, the cheerleaders had a dance and organized skits and pep sessions.

Personalities

A morning bell rings and the halls fill with people. We see them every day. No matter what size, shape, or age, they all have personalities. The faces are of friends, teachers, and some are just those of friendly people. New images intermingle with the familiar ones of friends and faculty. From our first Freshman day through our Senior year, we lose and gain many types of friends. Some we remember for their voice, some their attitudes, some the type of clothes they wear. But they all stand out in our minds for one reason or other. Whether good or bad, they're PHsers.

Mr. Wallace Aylesworth, superintendent.

Seventy-three full-time teachers formed the 1965-66 faculty at Portage. The language department experienced the greatest turnover gaining five new teachers.

After the 3 p.m. bell rings, time was taken for grading papers, making up tests, and preparing lessons. Hobbies and sports also found the way into a teacher's life. Faculty interests ranged from archeology to traveling. The bowling league, which met every Tuesday after school, was the most popular single form of recreation.

In charge of the whole school was our administration, Mr. Brian Shaddick and Mr. Richard Wilson. While Mr. Shaddick, principal, took care of most administrative duties, Mr. Wilson, assistant principal, handled disciplinary problems.

Working closely with the administration was Mr. Wallace Aylesworth, superintendent. He in turn conveyed their ideas to the School Board and carried out the board policies. In addition to this responsibility, Superintendent Aylesworth had the duty of hiring teachers for the school system.

Seniors Have Hectic Year Making Decisions

For 325 Indians, the school year brought the long awaited Senior year. The days that followed consisted of constructing prize-winning floats for two consecutive years; preparing and sponsoring the Christmas dance, "A Touch of Mistletoe"; being decked out in gaudy outfits for the Seniors Clash Party; and accepting the honor of being guests at the Junior-Senior Prom.

The Seniors brought numerous awards and honors to the class. These honors ranged from a Conference high-scorer to many and varied scholarships.

Baccalaureate and graduation revealed mixed emotions varying from tears to laughter. But after the formalities and parties of graduation the Seniors set out to plan their goals and futures.

SENIOR ANNOUNCEMENTS are one of the main concerns of the Senior class officers, Secretary-Treasurer Peggy Howard, Vice President Fred Lindner, and President Bruce Lindner.

CRISP, SNOWY WEATHER provides excitement for Junior class officers, President Max Kitchell, Secretary-Treasurer Debby Van De Water, and Vice-President Dan Tesanovich.

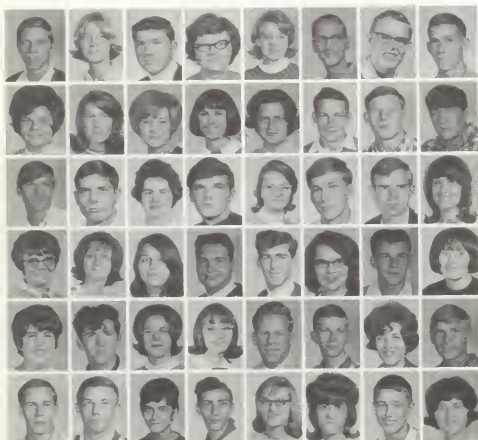

At the beginning of their third year of high school, the Juniors received their long-awaited class rings. Ordered in the spring of the sophomore year, the rings, bearing the official PHS crest, arrived in late August just before school started.

The Junior class Homecoming float, designed to look only half-finished, bore the slogan, "We Thought Homecoming Was Next Week."

"Spotlight '67" was the theme for the Junior class party on January 15, at which "The Reactions" entertained.

Two stereo record players, a solar-powered radio, and two transistor radios were the five prizes awarded to the winners in the Junior candy sales. A total profit of $2,750 was added to the Junior class treasury.

As a climax to the Junior year, the Prom and After-Prom party was arranged and financed by the Junior class in honor of the 1966 graduating class.

Sophomores Take Active Part in School Life

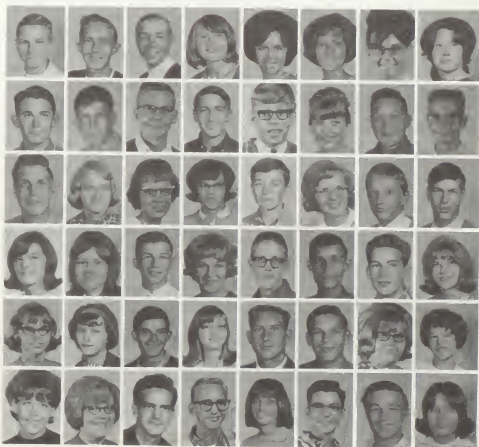

PRINCIPAL Bryan Shaddick confers with sophomore class officers, Miki McGuire, president, Kim Wallace, vice-president, and Roe Kirkendorfer, secretary-treasurer.

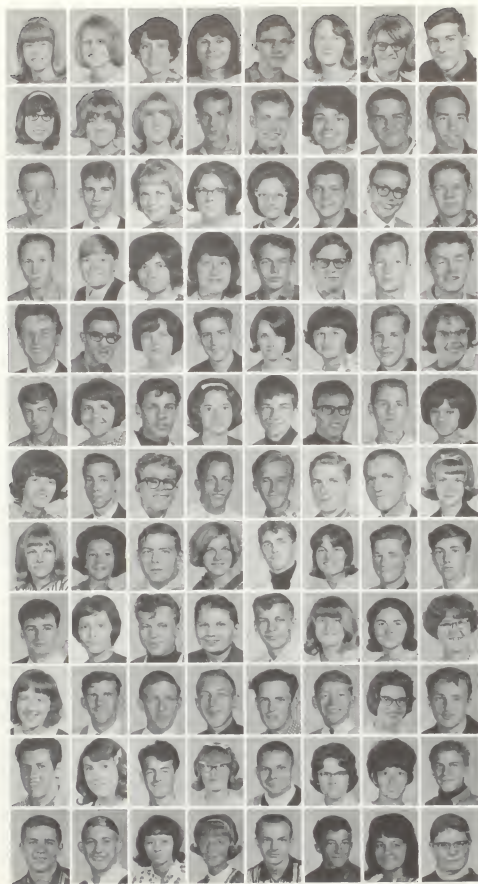

As wiser and more experienced survivors of the general confusion of their Freshman year, the Sophomores returned to an active second year of high school learning and fun.

The class officers did a fine job of organizing activities in which the entire class could participate. Two class parties, "Sophomore Discotheque" and "Sophomores in Orbit" gave them a chance to get together and enjoy themselves. Besides the two class parties, the Sophomores sponsored a series of bake sales in March which proved to be a very successful money-raising project. The Sophomore Homecoming float, a large helmet with the slogan "Crack 'Em" was awarded second prize this year.

Like all Sophomores before them, the class engaged in choosing and ordering rings.

Freshmen Become Oriented in New Surroundings

As usual, confusion reigned over most of the Freshman class as the year began. But with the help of the guidance department and time, they soon became oriented with the new surroundings, friends, and organizations.

Construction work on the school added to the confusion for the incoming Freshmen. The traditional Freshman bonfire was omitted in the "66" Homecoming because of the game being played on Chesterton's home field. The big event for the Freshmen was their class party "Teen Beat 1969" held on November 6 in the all-purpose room with the "Corsairs" as the featured band.

INFORMAL CONFERENCES concerning Freshman activities are an aid to these officers, Vice-President Vicki Melton, Secretary-Treasurer Joan Peters, and President Mike Burklow.
